EKITUNDU A

1. Ddamu 1 (a) ne 1 (b)

(a) Kyusa ekitundu kino okizze mu Luganda. (0bubonero 15)

After a prolonged fight with the Abarusura, the Baganda army was overwhelmed, which prompted Kibuuka to show up in his cloud. That day was so scary. It actually did rain with peals of thunder punctuating the occasion. Kibuuka killed many of the Abarusura soldiers but the survivors knew what to do.

The battle was so severe that it changed location every time. The cloud that used to stay in one place at the battlefield now shifted position, because the Abarusura were now aiming at it. Finally one of the Abarusura climbed a nearby anthill and shot at the dark spot of the cloud.

Alas!! Kibuuka was shot. Down he went and landed on the branch of a tall mvule tree, which dried instantly! The rain and the cloud followed suit. They instantly disappeared! The mighty had fallen!

The following day, Kibuuka was gotten from the top of the mvule tree (which is still dry up to today) and was buried across the roadside shrub where his shrines are even today.
